

Internship in Centre for Citizenship and Democracy

Organization: A non-profit Centre for Citizenship and Democracy with the mission to transform quality of life in Indian cities; works with both citizens and governments in advocating policy, creating platforms for citizen engagement and forging partnerships to attain scale

Internship Type: there are different projects where one could work on. There are projects to work on in the field of Research, Technology, Web Design/ Marketing, Law & Policy, Teaching, Spatial Planning, Content analysis.

Number of Positions: 1-2

Place: Bangalore

Duration: 3-6 months

Expertise:

- Pursuing a degree in the fields of Law, Economics, Public Policy, Political Sciences and Social Sciences or other equivalent to field of project. Candidates preferably in the last or second year.
- Exposure to basic quantitative research, working knowledge of spreadsheets and Microsoft Office
- Strong analytical and research skills
- High-level of self-motivation, passion and perseverance required for social change at a systematic level
- Attention to detail, high personal standards of performance
- Positive attitude, flexibility and openness to adapt to organizational ideas, approaches and a dynamic work environment
- Working with multi-disciplinary teams
- Excellent communication skills in English – written, verbal and interpersonal

Tasks (vary from project to project), e.g. City Survey (Field: Research/Spatial Planning):

- developing a survey on India's City-System
- evaluating the state of India's city-systems
- researching for unique practices and processes followed by cities across the world
- analyzing data from the survey and drawing trends/conclusions from it
- generating recommendations for City governance based on the analyses
- assisting team in writing report, supporting team in arranging events

Support: to be discussed

Application process: After sending your application, there will be a Skype interview with one of the coordinators.

For further information, please contact: info@bayind.de